Kohan II: Kings of War, Kohan II: Kings of War is a fun fantasy RTS. Download Kohan II: Kings of War 1 K2 [No CD]. It's really just a good game that could have been better if some of the parts didn't take so long to arrive on disk, or if it were priced lower. Q: Why can't I autostart my program I am trying to make a simple autostart that I can run anytime from the menu bar. But I can only seem to get it to stop. I have tried going to `/etc/mittab` and removing the shutdown line, but that didn't do anything. I know I have to edit the `/etc/xdg/session/LXDE-pi` and to remove the line `exec /home/pi/app`. Thats all that was in there. I already figured out how to make my program have autostart. all I need help with is making it not fail in the least bit. Here is the code that is in the desktop file. [Desktop Entry] Name=Main Menu Comment=Spouts hot air Exec=/main.sh Icon=/home/pi/app/icon.png Terminal=false Type=Application StartupWMClass= A: As I mentioned in my comment, it's not possible to have a program autostart. However, you can create a .desktop file that will start a daemon that you will launch yourself (using your command). Check out man 5 desktop for more information. The daemon you create here will also be able to autostart. Also, note that the order of fields in a .desktop file matter. In particular the executable must be first, then options and then arguments. I don't know if it's enough to have the executable specified in the first field, but you're certainly better off putting the executable first. (Ordering them the way you've specified them won't matter, because launch scripts set the executable first). // Copyright (c) 2011 The Chromium Authors.
